WORK OF TWO ORDERS

Daughters of America Almost Ready to Leave

BUT THE SONS OF ST. GEORGE

Will be With us Another Day—Daughters Make a Change in Their Ritual and the Sons Offer an Important Amendment—Both Orders had Sessions and Subsequent Feasts Last Night.

The Sons of St. George are enjoying themselves in this city and meanwhile transacting business in a business-like manner.

Little of importance came before the session yesterday afternoon as the members were desirous of spending a few hours with the Young Men's Christian association boys at Columbian park, and adjourned early for that purpose. After a brief but pleasant outing at the grove and a good supper at the hotel, the visitors accepted an invitation to attend the regular meeting of Josiah Wedgwood lodge, the local branch of the order. The majority of the Grand Lodge officers and delegates were present at the meeting and were tendered a pleasant surprise afterward. When the business of the order was disposed of the doors were thrown open and about 60 ladies, members of the Daughters of St. George, marched in. After all were comfortably seated a previously prepared program was carried out to the enjoyment of all. Following is the program as rendered:

Music—By the Band Song—J. G. Clements on Cleveland Address—John Shore, Youngstown Tenor solo—E. J. Owen, East Liverpool Soprano solo—Mrs. Fred Litch, E. Liverpool Orator—Rev. Jesse C. Taylor Comic song—Thomas Filmer, Rochester, N. Y. Bass solo—Thomas Booth, Youngstown Comic song—John C. Owen, E. Liverpool

Recess of one-half hour. Song—W. H. Norton, Cleveland Address—"Uncle Joe," Wadsworth Song—Joseph Barlow, East Liverpool Song—"Stick to Your Mother Tongue," Past Grand President John E. Washer, Akron. Address—E. V. Shaylor, Columbus

A vote of thanks was tendered the ladies and the orchestra and the meeting came to an end about midnight by the singing of the closing ode. The recess mentioned in the program was a season of pleasure in the way of social enjoyment. An elegant luncheon was served by the ladies and was relished by their delighted guests.

After the close of the affair two victims, Jack Owen and T. Robinson, were brought before Grand Mogul Thomas Filmer, to receive the Jawahar degree. This impressive ceremony was carried out in an interesting manner, and Messrs. Owen and Robinson are recuperating today.

The visiting delegates were shown through the Homer Laughlin pottery by William Adams, and were pleased with what they saw. They contemplate a trip through the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles pottery today or tomorrow.

The grand lodge convened at 9 o'clock this morning and the time was consumed until noon hearing the reports of the president, secretary, treasurer, finance committee and trustees. The following showed the condition of the order in Ohio:

Total receipts of the year, $14,344.50; expended for the relief of brethren, $5,691.94; for funeral benefits, $1,892.32; donations, $458.39; other purposes, $6,432.43; membership, last report, 2,075; initiated during year, 86; reinstated, 19; admitted by card, 6; suspended, 209; expelled, 3; deceased, 12; withdrawn by card, 25; membership, May 31, 1894, 1,972; funds in treasurer's hands, $3,981.10; invested, $9,395.53; widows and orphans fund, $129.46; funds of grand lodge, $1,007.47; grand total, $14,513.56.

For the first time in the history of the grand lodge the order has gone back both in membership and finances as far as subordinate lodges are concerned.

E. V. Shaylor and John Morley, delegates, have been appointed as press committee and their courtesies are appreciated.

John R. Angier, of Akron, supreme secretary, pleased the grand lodge by his arrival this morning.

The only items of importance outside the reports of this morning were the offering of several important amendments. One of these was that the supreme lodge at its meeting in Brooklyn, October, 1895, permit English, Scotch and Welsh residents to become members of the order.

ELECTED OFFICERS

The Daughters of America Finishing up Business.

The Daughters of America love pleasure as much as they admire patriotism, and they have been enjoying their visit to the Crockery City. Yesterday afternoon after having their pictures taken and spending a pleasant half hour looking over the city they returned to the hall and took up the business on hand. The election of officers resulted in honor being bestowed upon the following persons:

Councilor, M. B. Seiler; associate councilor, Miss Maggie Rachtel; vice councilor, L. O. Meyles, assistant councilor, Mrs. Maggie Billings; treasurer, C. W. Morris; conductor, W. A. Frankford; inside sentinel, C. S. Wilson; outside sentinel, J. E. Anderson.

Last night came the culminating pleasure of the meeting, and all enjoyed it to the best of their ability. A rattling of dishes in some secluded part of the third floor of the NEWS REVIEW building informed the members as they came to attend council meeting that elaborate preparations were being made for another part of the gathering, various hints of which had been flying through the convention before adjournment in the afternoon. At the meeting a candidate was initiated, and as the degree team is counted one of the best in the country the work was perfect and elicited many compliments from the visitors. The social which followed was the enjoyable part of the entertainment, however, and mirth and good cheer reigned supreme. The guests were treated royally and given all that they could ask.

Speeches were made by the state and national officers present and a feast of oratory was the result. Following this came the ice cream, cake and general enjoyment. It was a pleasant evening for all, and passed without a break.

At the session this morning Councilor Gerbig presided, and the council acted upon several important amendments to the law. It was decided that the charter fee for subordinate councils should be placed at $30, which includes the cost of supplies, and that reports be made every quarter. The time for the payment of the per capita tax was extended from 15 to 30 days, and hereafter no council or associate councilor shall be a representative. Councils can now extend the beneficiary period to one year if they so desire, and also have the power to fix the period of arrearage, but it must not exceed 13 weeks nor be less than one week. The representatives from each state council will in future number five for every organization of that kind not having 500 members, for each additional 500 one representative will be allowed. Where there is no state council one representative for each council will be allowed.

All subordinate councils under the jurisdiction of the national council must pay eight cents for each member, and pay it quarterly. The committee appointed to examine the reports of officers found them all right. It was decided to subscribe for 75 copies of the American Journal for the benefit of the council. The ritual committee reported in favor of the document written by C. W. Mills and J. H. Watson, of Steubenville. National Warden Tipton read the ritual, and the work of discussing it was taken up. It will require almost all of the afternoon it is thought to dispose of it.

The press committee regret that in the list of new councils given yesterday Helpmate council, of Dayton, was unintentionally omitted. Vice Councilor H. A. Ewing and S. S. Wilson, are members of the council which is one of the best in Ohio. The name of Lucy Webb council of Ludlow, Kentucky, was also omitted.

Yesterday morning the council was taken through the Knowles, Taylor & Knowles pottery by J. E. Anderson. The majority had never been in a pottery before and the scenes presented were decidedly interesting. Many were surprised when informed that it was the largest plant in the country, and that it was but one of a large number in the city. It is safe to say that they will all add to the fame of East Liverpool by the stories they tell of the great factory.

Associate Junior Past Councilor Miss Lou Boyd, of Coshocton, was taken sick last night and was unable to attend the morning session. The young lady is better this afternoon.

The delegates expect to have their business completed by this afternoon, and will leave for their homes this evening or tomorrow morning. Next year they will meet in Brooklyn, N. Y., where they expect to have a pleasant time. But even a great city could not give them a more enjoyable few days than they have had in the Ceramic City, and they are not slow in expressing their appreciation of the kind treatment tendered them.

—Mrs. Franklin, of New Brighton, has returned home after a visit in this city.

MANY GOOD CONTESTS

Characterized the Picnic Yesterday.

A LARGE CROWD WAS THERE

And Every Man, Woman and Child Helped the Young Men's Christian Association Have a Delightful Time. The Athletic Events Drew the Attention of All.

The picnic of the Young Men's Christian association yesterday afternoon, was attended by a large crowd, and highly enjoyed by all who were there.

Manley's band rode through town early yesterday afternoon on the new band wagon fitted out by Superintendent Andrews of the street railway, and every car for an hour afterward was filled to overflowing with association boys and their friends. The various contests resulted in sport to all, Sherman Herbert winning the 100 yards running race in 14 seconds, with Gaston, Kane and Kitchell following in the order named. Frank Stanley in 12½ seconds covered the ground for the juniors footlock and Brooks following. Kitchell won the half mile running race in 1-2-36½, Gaston being second. The standing broad jump was won by Kane in 8 feet 10 inches, Gaston and Herbert being nearest, and the running high fell to Herbert, five feet, five inches, Kane second. Kane put the shot 31 feet, one inch, Herbert, 28 feet, seven inches, Gaston 27 feet, nine inches. In throwing the hammer Kane made 69 feet, four inches, Gaston, 54 feet, nine inches, and Herbert 53 feet, five inches. Meigh won the half mile bicycle race in 1-22, Jewell, 1-35 while Bott came in third. The half mile junior race with 25 yards handicap was won by Chapman the scratch man, Bottenberg being second. The three legged race claimed Baxter and Brooks as winners, 50 yards in 84 seconds. Joe Cartwright threw the base ball 98 yards and won over Simms, Tolbert and McKinnon.

Great credit is due the association for the sport given the public, and to the officers and committee for the splendid manner in which the events of the day were managed.

A Charitable Act.

Since the starting of the potteries there have been few if any cases of destitution found in the city but a charitable lady discovered an instance of actual want a few days ago. A widow lady with four children in a starving condition fell beneath her notice by accident and she responded promptly. The mother has been sick for several weeks and could not work, and all that remained of their store of provisions was a few potatoes and some flour which the mother was too ill to make into bread. The widow lady could not bear the thought of being "on the town" and had no doctor. With the assistance of several ladies the charitable party secured a doctor and needed provisions and now promises the sick woman plenty of well remunerated work when she recovers.

The Wellsville Races.

The Wellsville races begin today, and the people here who delight in the track are preparing for some fine sport tomorrow and Friday. There is a great array of horses at the fair ground, almost a hundred being there to take part in the many events scheduled for the meeting. Some of them are fast, while others would not make a good race in the most flattering circumstances, but the majority are good horses, and will show up to splendid advantage. A bookmaker was in one of the hotels there last night, and expressed the fear that he would be arrested if he sold pools on the races. He claimed to have received a quiet tip that it would not be allowed.

John H. Clark For Congress.

The Youngstown Telegram asserts that the banquet to be given by the Democratic friends of John H. Clark in that city tonight is for the purpose of launching his congressional bark, and before many days he will be a full fledged candidate. The silver haired attorney has been in Europe, but as he is a member of what one of them calls the "better element" of Democracy, his friends have been looking after him. Clark is the man who was nominated by acclamation at the Alliance convention, but refused to accept it, and Doctor Ikirt got the plum.

The Coming Campaign.

Populists here have received information that Coxe and his procession will be with us some time in October. He will open the campaign in Massillon, and journey from there to all the unfortunate towns in the district accompanied by a few faithful but deluded followers, a brass band and a circus tent. It is his intention to offer his tent to ministers in towns where he will spend Sunday. The "general" is said to be very much disappointed because the Democrats will not endorse his canvass and his bills.

COUNTY COURTS.

An Interesting Budget of News From New Lisbon.

NEW LISBON, August 21.—On August 7 an information was filed before Squire Walker, of West township, by D. O. Emmons stating that he had just cause to fear that Robert. Knight would maliciously strike and kill or attempt to kill him and wanted the protection of the law. The papers were placed on file here today binding Knight over to court in the sum of $200 bond.

On the 25th of last month before G. Y. Travis, of East Liverpool, judgment was given the Kinsey Plumbing company for $10.92 and costs against Sadie Smith, claimed due for work done for her and material furnished. The defendant appealed to the higher court.

Home From England.

Thomas Bridget, of Third street, will be accorded a royal welcome at the Salvation army barracks tonight. Mr. Bridget has been in England for 10 weeks representing the colored work of this country in the great international congress at Crystal palace, London. In company with representatives from the other 40 countries in which the army is working, he visited all the leading cities of England and Ireland, together with the city and farming colonies in connection with the General Booth Darkest England scheme. The gentleman has seen much of interest, and will speak about it. Captain Moore and wife, of Michigan, will also be present to take part in the meeting.

They Want to Run.

President Donaldson, of the Steubenville pottery, is quoted in an interview as saying that the future of the potting industry depends upon how deep will be the cut in prices by the foreign manufacturers or the passage of an omnibus bill in which the duty is increased to the rate upon which the basis of settlement in the strike was made. The Steubenville pottery still has a big stock of ware on hand, as they had no assortment during the strike, could not fill orders then, and cannot dispose of ware now that they have it because of the dullness of trade.

May One of Them Win.

Bott, Jewell and Rex, the local wheelmen who will take part in the road race from Buffalo to Pittsburgh will leave tonight. Tomorrow morning they leave Pittsburgh for Buffalo, and go from there the next day for a glance at Niagara Falls. Friday afternoon the race starts, and will be continued until Saturday evening at 6 o'clock, the time limit. It is thought that the winner will be in less time, as the arrangement is liberal. The local boys are hopeful, but say they will be satisfied with the sport even though they do not win.

Where is the End?

The river is lower at present than has been known in many years, in fact there seems to be no one in this vicinity who can remember such an event. Boatmen say that a long and steady rain over the greater part of the country drained by the Ohio is their only salvation, and they do not expect this until after the autumnal equinox in September. A great deal of coal is being collected in Pittsburgh for the lower markets, and when the water does come there will be a mighty rush for first place.

A Long Time Between Visits.

S. A. Magrew, who has a soldier in Company A, One Hundred and Fifteenth Ohio Infantry during the war, is in the city visiting friends. He formerly resided here but 24 years ago went to Indiana where he has since resided. He was a comrade of Squire Beardmore, and they have not seen each other in many years. The gentleman can see a great improvement in the city, and thinks it is one of the best towns he knows anything of.

Have You a House?

About the middle of September or the first of October a gentleman who is engaged in manufacturing wants a house centrally located, of five or six rooms, and containing bathroom and other modern improvements. It is to be occupied by a family of three. The party will lease for from three to five years, and if desirable will pay rent quarterly in advance. Rent must be reasonable. Inquire immediately at NEWS REVIEW office.

FOOT PRINTS IN LIME

Seem to Indicate that a Robber

WAS IN A BUTCHER'S SHOP

On Sixth Street Last Night—He Put Some Money in the Safe and Left It Open—Now the Strong Box is Locked and he Thinks his Gold is Gone.

Charles Gotshall, a young man employed as clerk in a Sixth street butcher shop believes that he was robbed of $15 last night.

In the establishment where Gotshall works is a safe, but something has gone wrong with the combination, and when once shut cannot be opened until an expert fingers the knob. Last night the clerk had $15 in his possession, and not desiring to carry it around with him he put it in the safe, closed the door but did not touch the lock. This morning when he went to work his first thought was the money, and going to the safe he found it locked. As it was open when he left he decided that some one had been there before him, and an investigation was made. A side window was found open, and the mark of a foot appeared in some lime on the ground beneath. These indications caused the clerk to think. Investigating farther he discovered that there was lime on the floor near the safe. Deciding that he had been robbed he called upon Chief Gill for aid, and the officer took up the trail. It was followed across the room to the window, and from there to Broadway indicating that some one with lime on his shoes had walked on Broadway and in the butcher shop last night. Then Gotshall remembered that Dutch Zoellars had seen him have the money last night, and he asked that the chief arrest him for the crime. Chief Gill did not place the man in arrest, but escorted him to city hall where an investigation was made. It was private, but indications showed that there was not enough evidence against the accused to hold him. His shoes had lime on them, but Gotshall could not positively accuse the man, and he was permitted to go. Another point in his favor was that he declared he could prove an alibi by having three women and two men swear that they knew where he was last night, some place other than the butcher shop. The owner of the establishment is out of town, and will not return until tomorrow.

He Knew Where to Go.

Editor Stoll, of the Toronto Tribune, recently decided to issue a handsome souvenir edition in honor of the firemen's tournament soon to be held in that place, and being rushed with preparation found that he would be compelled to go out of town for work on a portion of his paper. As the souvenir was to a beauty he naturally looked around before selecting an office, and as naturally decided that the NEWS REVIEW was the only place where it could be done to suit him. An endorsement of this sort from a publisher is the best proof obtainable.

They Want a Change.

Residents of a prominent square on Monroe street complain of the actions of a woman residing in the neighborhood, and assert that all are scandalized. The cause of the complaint seems to be the open disregard of decency manifested by the woman in question. It is believed that she conducts herself so as to remain outside the bounds of any law, but if her ways are not soon changed she may be requested to seek pastures more adapted to her unwomanly actions.

Broke His Arm.

The five-year-old child of a man named Ross, and the misfortune to break its left arm last evening. The little one was attempting to go down a flight of dark stairs and sustained the injury. The parents of the child can not imagine how the accident occurred as the boy has frequently gone down the stairs without injury to himself.

The State Lodge Meet.

At the regular meeting of Hope Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, Monday evening, Joseph Smith was elected representative to the state lodge which meets at Bellefontaine next week. J. Morley, of Youngstown, who is at present attending the Grand lodge, Sons of St. George, is also a delegate to the coming session.

Knocked Him Down.

Two men were talking earnestly in the Diamond last evening when one seemed to think that the other had wronged him, and in a moment had knocked him down.

FROM THE RANKS.

BY CAPT. CHARLES KING.

Copyright 1904 by the J. B. Lippincott Co.

"You say so, and I don't mean to dispute your word, Captain Armitage, but I have a right to demand some proof. How am I to know he authorized you?"

"He himself gave me this letter, in your handwriting," said Armitage, and opening the long envelope he held forth the paper over which the poor old colonel had gone nearly wild. "He found it the morning they left—in her garret."

If Jerrold's face had been gray before, it was simply ghastly now. He trembled from the sight after one fruitless effort to grasp the letter, then rallied with unlooked for spirit:

"By heaven, Armitage, suppose I did write that letter? What does it prove but what I say—that somebody has been spying and spying into my affairs? How came the colonel by it if not by fraud or treachery?"

"He picked it up in the garden, I tell you, among the rosebushes, where she was sitting. Miss Renwick—had been but a few moments before, and where it might appear that she had dropped it."

"She! That letter! What had she to do with it? What right had she to read it?"

Armitage stepped impulsively forward. A glad, glorious light was bursting upon his soul. He could almost have seized Jerrold's hand and thanked him, but proofs, proofs were what he needed. It was not his mind that was to be convinced; it was "society" that must be satisfied of her utter innocence, that it might be able to say, "Well, I never for a moment believed a word of it." Link by link the chain of circumstantial evidence must be destroyed, and this was only one.

"You mean that that letter was not intended for Miss Renwick?" he asked, with eagerness he strove hard to repress.

"It was never meant for anybody," said Jerrold, the color coming back to his face and courage to his eyes. "That letter was never sent by me to any woman. It's my writing, of course—I can't deny that—but I never even meant it to go. If it left that desk, it must have been stolen. I've been hunting high and low for it. I knew that such a thing as a forged letter would be the cause of mischief. God! is that what all this fuss is about?" And he looked warily, with infinite anxiety, into his captain's eyes.

"There is far more to it, as you well know, sir," was the stern answer. "For whom was this written if not for her? It won't do to half her name."

"Answer me this, Captain Armitage. Do you mean that that letter has compromised Miss Renwick; that it is she whose name has been involved, and that it is of her that Chester meant to speak?"

"Certainly it was—and I too."

There was an instant's silence; then Jerrold began to laugh nervously:

"Oh, well, I fancy it isn't the first time the reverend and respected captain has got away off the track. All the same, I do not mean to overlook his language to me, and I may say right now, Captain Armitage, that yours, too, calls for an explanation."

"You shall have it in short order, Mr. Jerrold, and the sooner you understand the situation the better. So far as I am concerned, Miss Renwick needed no defender; but, thanks to your mysterious and unwarranted absence from quarters two very unlucky nights, and to other circumstances I have no need to name, and to your penchant for letter writing of a most suggestive character, it is Miss Renwick whose name has been brought into question here at this post and most prominently so. In plain words, Mr. Jerrold, you who brought this trouble upon her by your own misconduct must clear her, no matter at whose expense, or—"

"Or what?"

"I make no threats. I prefer that you should make the proper explanations from a proper sense of what is due."

And suppose I say that no man is called upon to explain a situation which has been distorted and misrepresented by the evil imagination of his fellows?"

"Then I may have to wring the truth out of you—and will; but, for her sake, I want as little publicity as possible. After this display on your part I am not wonted to show you any consideration whatever. Understand this, however—the array of evidence that you were feloniously inside Colonel Maynard's quarters that night and at his cottage window last night is of such a character that a court would convict you unless your alibi was conclusive. Leave the service you certainly shall unless this whole thing is cleared up."

"I never was anywhere near Colonel Maynard's either last night or the other night I was absent."

"You will have to prove it. Mere denials won't help you in the face of such evidence as we have that you were there the first time."

"What evidence?"

"The photograph that was stolen from Mrs. Maynard between 2 and 4 o'clock that morning was seen in your drawer by Major Sloat at reveille. You were fool enough to show it to him."

"Captain Armitage, I shall be quite able to show, when the proper time comes, that the photograph I showed Major Sloat was not stolen. It was given me."

"That is beyond belief, Mr. Jerrold. Come and for all understand this case"

"You have compromised her good name by the very mystery of your actions. You have it in your power to clear her by proving where you were, since you were not near her; by showing how you got that photograph; by explaining how you came to write so strange a letter. Now I say to you, will you do it instantly, or must we wring it from you?"

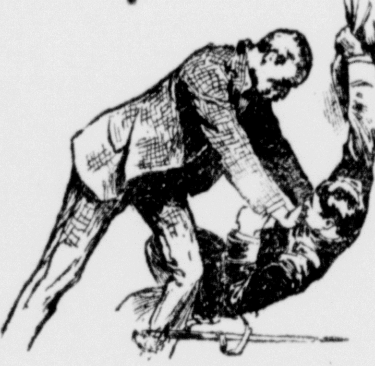

A smothered smile was the only answer for a moment, then:

"I shall take great pleasure in confounding my enemies should the matter be brought before a court. I'm sure if the colonel can stand that sort of thing I can, but as for defending myself or anybody else from utterly unjust and proofless suspicions it's quite another thing."

"Good God, Jerrold, do you realize what a position you are taking? Do you?"

"Oh, not at all, captain," was the airy reply, "not at all. It is not a position I have taken. It is one into which you misguided conspirators have forced me. I certainly am not required to compromise anybody else in order to relieve a suspicion which you, not I, have created. How do you know that there may not be some other woman whose name I propose to guard? You have been really very flattering in your theories so far."

Armitage could bear no more. The airy conceit and insolence of the man overcame all self restraint and resolution. With one bound he was at his throat, his strong white hands grasping him in a sudden, viselike grip, then hurling him with stunning, thundering force to the floor. Down, headlong, went the tall lieutenant, his sword clattering by his side, his slim brown hands clutching wildly at anything that might bear him up, and dragging with him in his catastrophe a rack of hunting pouches, antlers and one heavy double barreled shotgun. All came tumbling down about the struggling form, and Armitage, glaring down at him with clinching fists and rasping teeth, had only time to utter one deep drawn malediction when he felt a hand on his shoulder.

With one bound he was at his throat.

tion when he noted that the struggles ceased, and Jerrold lay quite still. Then the blood began to ooze from a jagged cut near the temple, and it was evident that the hammer of the gun had struck him.

Another moment and the door opened, and with anxious face Chester strode into the room. "You haven't killed him, Armitage? Is it as bad as that?"

"Pick him up, and we'll get him on the bed. He's only stunned. I didn't even hit him. Those things tumbled afterward," said Armitage as between them they raised the dead weight of the slender Adonis in their arms and bore him to the bedroom. Here they bathed the wound with cold water and removed the uniform coat, and presently the lieutenant began to revive and look about him.

"Who struck me?" he faintly asked.

"Your shotgun fell on your head, but I threw you down, Jerrold. I'm sorry I touched you, but you're lucky it was no worse. This thing is going to raise a big bump here. Shall I send the doctor?"

"No; I'll come round presently. We'll see about this thing afterward."

"Is there any friend you want to see? Shall I send word to anybody?" asked Chester.

"No; don't let anybody come. Tell my striker to bring my breakfast, but I want nothing tonight but to be let alone."

"At least you will let me help you undress and get to bed?" said Chester.

"No; I wish you'd go—both of you. I want quiet—peace—and there's none of it with either of you."

And so they left him. Later Captain Chester had gone to the quarters and after much parleying from without had gained admission. Jerrold's head was bound in a bandage wet with arnica and water. He had been soiling himself with a pipe and a whisky toddy and was in a not unnaturally ugly mood.

"You may consider yourself excused from duty until your face is well again, by which time this matter will be decided. I admonish you to remain here and not leave the post until it is."

"You can prefer charges and see what you'll make of it," was the vehement reply. "Devil a bit will I help you out of the thing after this night's work."

CHAPTER XIV.

Tuesday and the day of the long projected german had come, and if ever a lot of garrison people were wishing themselves well out of a flurry it was the social circle at Sibley. Invitations had been sent to all the prominent people in town who had shown any interest in the garrison since the regiment's arrival; beautiful favors had been prepared; an elaborate dinner had been repared, the ladies contributing their efforts to the salads and other solids, the officers wisely confining their donations to the wines. It was rumored that new and original figures were to be danced, and much had been said about this feature in town, and much speculation had been indulged in, but the Beaubien residence had been closed until the previous day. Nina was away with her mother and beyond reach of question, and Mr. Jerrold had not shown his face in town since her departure.

Nor was he accessible when visitors inquired at the fort. They had never known such mysterious army people in their lives. What on earth could induce them to be so close mouthed about a mere german? One might suppose they had something worth concealing, and presently it became noised abroad that there was genuine cause for perplexity, and possibly worse.

To begin with, every one at Sibley now knew something of the night adventure at the colonel's, and as no one could give the true statement of the case the stories in circulation were gorgeous embellishments of the actual facts. It would be useless, even if advisable, to attempt to reproduce these wild theories, but never was army garrison so tumultuously stirred by the whirlwind of rumor. It was no longer denied for an instant that the absence of the colonel and his household was the direct result of that night's discoveries, and when, to Mrs. Hoyt's inexpressible relief, there came a pretty worded note from Alice on Monday evening informing her that neither the colonel nor her mother felt well enough to return to Sibley for the german, and that she herself preferred not to leave her mother at a time when she needed her care, Mrs. Hoyt and her intimates, with whom she instantly conferred, decided that there could be no doubt whatever

LOCAL BREVITIES

Joshua Poole and bride arrived home yesterday afternoon from England where they have been spending their honeymoon.

V. Smith, of Pittsburg, is in the city the guest of William Bridge. The gentleman is a typewriter and if he can secure a situation here will make this place his home.

Will Barr, a young man employed in one of the potteries received word today that his mother, living at Sewickley, was dangerously ill, and he took the morning train for that place.

Will Pike, the popular young man who looks after the destinies of the Thompson House, will leave on Friday of this week for an outing in West Virginia. He expects to be absent about two weeks.

L. C. Graves versus Joseph. Walters is a case which will come up before Squire Travis at 1 o'clock at the city hall tomorrow afternoon. The amount claimed is $171, alleged to be due on a note and check.

Residents of Pennsylvania avenue, who noted the peculiar actions of the young man spoken of in the News Review yesterday, say there is a girl in the case and a pretty little romance, something out of the ordinary, behind it all.

An unknown man was seized with an attack of coughing near the corner of Fourth and Washington streets yesterday, and for a time it was feared that he would die. He got better, however, and explained that he had consumption.

James E. Green, of East End, has entered suit against A. L. Harker for $81.50 claimed to be due the plaintiff as rental of a house occupied by Harker. The case will come up before Squire Travis for a hearing on Saturday morning next at 11 o'clock.

Much gratification is being expressed by business men because of the payment of debts contracted during the strike. One prominent business man expressed the belief that if the potteries continued to run for a year at the rate now experienced the city will have almost recovered from the Democratic shock.

Cleveland and Pittsburg railroad officers continue their crusade against tramps, and not a week goes by without some luckless box car passenger finding the inside of a jail. But they do not get them all, according to an East End man, who saw three leave a freight train last night near Thompson's pottery.

Mayor Gilbert and wife returned yesterday from the east greatly pleased with their trip. After spending a few days with friends in Pennsylvania they went to Atlantic City, and were there last Sunday aiding in forming the crowd of 175,000 people who had dropped into town to see the ocean. The mayor feels very much better after his vacation, and has already settled down to work.

Residents of the lower part of town report a hair pulling match on an extensive scale the other night, and right on one of the public thoroughfares at that. The combatants were women and one accused the other of taking her job in a pottery along the river. She used her fists to good advantage, although the accused party was not idle, and both bore marks of the affray.

An accident occurred to a young man named Blair near the corner of Sixth and Walnut streets last night. He was riding a bicycle when he looked around to answer a friend and collided with a telephone pole. He was thrown from his wheel and landed on the curb stone, his head striking the pavement, and a bad gash being cut. He managed to ride to a doctor's office and had his wounds dressed.

A farmer selling tomatoes made a bluff once too often when he tackled an uptown storekeeper yesterday. He bantered the grocer to sell him a basket of tomatoes as the grocer did not want to buy and the price asked was 40 cents. "Give you 35 said the farmer who had no idea his offer would be accepted. The grocer took him up like a flash and although badly beaten he paid the price and made the best of a bad bargain.

Sam Mackall and Reddy Riggs, the men who made it interesting for each other on Smoky Monday night, were taken before the mayor and asked to explain the matter for his edification. At the conclusion of the story he decided that Mackall had transgressed the law to the extent of $1 and costs, while Riggs had been able to double the amount. Mackall paid, and Riggs was released on promise to settle in the near future.

There was a fight on a shanty boat last night which is surrounded with more or less mystery. One man was attacked by another, and soundly thrashed for his pains. It occurred about midnight and aroused no one but the immediate neighbors who sought in vain for the cause. Neither of the men would give any explanation and as they have always been great friends the trouble remains a mystery. Half a dozen sensational stories were floating about it today.

What He Said.

The Toronto Tribune in reporting what Reverend Taylor said of the conference here a year ago, puts it in this way:
"He said in substance that he'd like to have those preachers all confined in a pen by a fence about 16 feet high and there keep them all day and tell them what he thought of them. He says they remind him of a lot of tadpoles hopping around in a pool, all trying to be bishop. 'They are a lot of fellows,' says Taylor, 'with two story hats and one story brains.'"

A Base Ball League.

Reports of a new base ball club similar to the old tri-state organization are going the rounds of papers in this vicinity, and some of the local players hope that it will materialize next year. Jack Glasscock acknowledges that he is at the head of the scheme, although not sure of it coming to anything. This city has some good players who could hold their own in a league of that sort.

Kenneth Bazemore had the good fortune to receive a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea remedy when three members of his family were sick with dysentery. This one small bottle cured them all and he had some left which he gave to Geo. W. Baker, a prominent merchant of the place. Lewiston, N. C., and it cured him of the same complaint. When troubled with dysentery, diarrhoea, colic or cholera morbus, give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result. The praise that naturally follows its introduction and use has made it very popular. 25 and 50 cents bottles for sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

AN ANTI-SALOON MEETING

To be held in the Grand Opera House Tomorrow Evening.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW.—The executive committee of the Anti-Saloon league at its last meeting planned for a public temperance meeting in the Sixth street opera house on Thursday evening, August 23. On account of the absence from the city of our secretary this meeting has not had proper advertisement. Will you please to announce the meeting through the columns of your paper, and call the attention of the people to it?

The league calling the meeting aims to unite all the friends of temperance, irrespective of sect or party against the saloon as the great enemy of the peace, the good order and happiness of society. The object of the meeting is to awaken and consolidate public sentiment on this subject, and to consider what can be done to get present and permanent relief from the evils of the saloon traffic, which with the first intimation of retaining prosperity have been increasing in our midst.

The meeting will be addressed by Rev. J. M. Huston D. D., Col. H. R. Hill and others. A temperance choir will entertain the audience with good music. Let all the friends of temperance and good order who are ready to combine their efforts to give effect to the motto of our league: "The saloon must go," come to the meeting and give the cause their sympathy and help.
J. C. TAGGART,
Chairman.

Will Open the Opera House.

Manager James E. Orr is arranging for the opening of the Grand Opera House, and believes the event will take place on the 27th of this month or September 5. He had hoped to secure Yon Yonson, but the company will not be on the road until later in the season, and will be with us in January. The company may be one of Charles Frohman's, and therefore one of merit.

Expected to Pay Up.

Constable Lyons has been looking for Ed Bourke, the man who is charged with assaulting the son of Jack Hague, but has been unable to find him. Squire Manley believes that the man will call around, pay his fine and let the matter drop.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhoea of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea remedy," says Edward Shumpek, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the remedy in this city for over seven years and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

No Meeting of the Board.

There was no meeting of the school board last night as was scheduled. Some of the members were out of the city, and it was thought best to wait until they returned.

My boy was taken with a disease resembling bloody flux. The first thing I thought of was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea remedy. Two doses of it settled the matter and cured him sound and well. I heartily recommend this remedy to all persons suffering from a like complaint. I will answer any inquires regarding it when stamp is inclosed. I refer to any county official as to my reliability. Wm. Roach, J. P. Primor, Campbell Co., Tenn. For sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

The Final Meeting.

A large attendance of the members of trades council is expected tonight when the final arrangements will be made for the celebration of Labor Day.

Resolutions of Respect.

At the regular meeting of Josiah Wedgewood lodge No. 235, Sons of St. George, East Liverpool, Ohio, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the giver of all life to remove from our midst our esteemed brother, Harry Davis, of Chatham lodge, Trenton, N. J., who departed this life Aug. 9, 1894.
Resolved, That in our deceased brother we recognize and deeply mourn the loss of one who loved our order and its members. He was honorable and upright in his dealings with his fellow men and a credit to his nation. His demise came at a time when his prospects for the future was so full of promise, and cut off in the prime of youth is a matter of universal regret to every member of Josiah Wedgewood lodge. To his loving wife and aged parents to whom this loss is so severe, we offer our heartfelt sympathies, praying that in this distressing affliction divine comfort may come and protect them, until united they meet beyond the river of death.
Resolved, That in remembrance of our late brother these resolutions be spread upon the records of this lodge, and a copy sent to the bereaved family; also to Chatham lodge, of Trenton, N. J.

Mrs. E. K. Chamberlain, of Sixth street, left today for Philadelphia and New York, to attend the millinery openings and buy fall millinery.

Strong Efforts to Pass the Alien Anarchist Law.

FIVE HUNDRED EN ROUTE HERE.

Secretary Carlisle and Immigration Commissioner Stump Want the Measure Passed Quickly Several Congressmen Objecting—Committee's Report.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Strenuous efforts are being made to pass the bill against "alien anarchists" before congress adjourns. Secretary Carlisle and Commissioner of Immigration Stump are very desirous of having this law as a protection against the 500 anarchists recently expelled from foreign countries and now en route here. The treasury officials have the co-operation of Speaker Crisp and the house managers, but thus far it has been impossible to steer the bill past the objections of Representative Warner of New York and others, which, in the absence of a quorum, have prevented the passage of the senate bill. When Mr. Warner's objection side-tracked the bill efforts were at once made to get consent by telegraph from Mr. Reed for a special rule bringing the bill to a vote. If this is obtained, the speaker and Mr. Catchings will frame the rule.

Mr. Warner is not the only member ready to object to the bill. Representative Goldzier of Chicago says the measure is ill-considered and that it makes no provision for designating who are anarchists and subject to summary deportation without trial.

Mr. Goldzier sent the following inquiry to the secretary of the treasury: "In view of the pendency of senate bill 2314, which, I am informed is prepared by you, I desire for use in the house your construction of the term 'alien anarchist' as used in said bill. In other words I desire an outline of the construction, which under your decision, the department would place on this term in case this bill is passed."

A strong report favoring the rigid exclusion and deportation of alien anarchists has been made by the house committee on judiciary. The report takes up the various objections made to the proposed measure and disposes of each of them. Concerning the objection that the bill is faulty in not defining anarchy the report says: "As the meaning of the word is defined as 'absence of government' the state of society where there is no law or supreme power; a state of lawlessness; political confusion, and its meaning well known, it is considered unnecessary to encumber the act with a special definition."

The committee meets the objection that a person should not be charged with anarchy and deported without jury trial, by saying: "It would hardly be contended, we suppose, that the government ought to maintain a jury at every port of entry for the purpose of passing on the qualification of immigrants who desire to enter, and as the immigrant who has been permitted to enter acquires no rights not possessed by the foreigner who desires to enter, we are unable to perceive upon what principle a jury trial is insisted upon in order to deport an alien whose continued residence in the country is considered detrimental to the public welfare."

In conclusion the report states that there is full constitutional power for the enactment of the proposed law, and that there is urgent necessity for the immediate passage of such a measure.

Wants the Negro Bureau Abolished.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—A formal request to abolish the Afro-American bureau of organization of the Democratic congressional committee is made in a communication addressed to Senator Faulkner, chairman of the committee, by H. C. C. Astwood, chairman of the Negro National Democratic league. Chairman Astwood, in urging immediate action, says there is nothing to be accomplished by the bureau; recounts its assessment letters now under investigation by the civil service commission, and characterizes its methods as improper.
